

Website Privacy Policy

Cookies Policy, What are cookies?, How do Business Products use cookies on our site?

A cookie is a small data file that Web sites often store on your computer's hard drive when you visit their sites. A cookie may contain information (such as a unique user ID), that is used to track the pages of the sites you've visited. You can refuse cookies by turning them off in your browser. You can read more about how to disable cookies in the Help menu of your browser. If you turn off cookies though you will not be able to receive the full web experience of our site. We use a number of different cookies on our site. If you do not know what cookies are, or how to control or delete them, then we recommend you visit <http://www.aboutcookies.org> for detailed guidance. We operate an implied consent policy which means that we assume you are happy with this usage. If you are not happy, then you should either not use this site, or you should delete our cookies having visited the site, or you should browse the site using your browser's anonymous usage setting (called Incognito in Chrome, InPrivate for Internet Explorer, Private Browsing in Firefox and Safari etc.)

Cookies for Site Analytics and Performance.

Google Analytics We use this to understand how the site is being used in order to improve the user experience. User data is all anonymous. You can find out more about Google's position on privacy as regards its analytics service at <http://www.google.co.uk/intl/en/analytics/privacyoverview.html>

Social Media Buttons.

On many of the pages of the site you will see Social Media buttons. These enable users to share or bookmark the web pages. There are buttons for Facebook, Google+ and Twitter. In order to implement these buttons and connect them to the relevant social networks and external sites, there are scripts from domains outside of our website. You should be aware that these sites are likely to be collecting information about what you are doing all throughout the internet, including on this website. So if you click on any of these buttons, these sites will be registering that action and may use that information. In some cases these sites will be registering the fact that you are visiting our site, and the specific pages you are on, even if you don't click on the button if you are logged into their services, like Google and Facebook. You should check the respective policies of each of these sites to see how exactly they use your information and to find out how to opt out, or delete, such information.

Privacy Policy

It is our policy never to sell or pass on your personal details to any other organisation; this includes your name, premises address or e-mail addresses. Business Products respect your privacy and ensure that the information you submit will only be used in accordance with business dealings between yourselves and Business Products and no 3rd party unless we are legally obliged to do so.

We operate a opt-in policy for any Email addresses that are collected under normal business operation, this includes Email addresses collected via telephone and paper documentation completed by Business Products and the Client. These Email addresses may be added to our mailing list in order to provide you with information, offers and news.
